BOYS IMITATE BILL HART AND DO STRANGE THINGS WHICH BRING THEM INTO COURT

A big portion of juvenile delinquency in Ogden is laid at the door of Bill Hart, the famous movie actor, in a statement made this morning by Judge Dan Sullivan of the juvenile court. "I am thoroughly convinced," said Judge Sullivan, "that the moral effect of showing Bill Hart pictures is responsible for much of the shooting of firearms within the city limits by boys, and that it is also the cause of many petty crimes committed by the boys. I believe that the shooting of Miss Verna Davidson, the school teacher, at the Classicalia, a week ago, was the result of boyish emulation of Bill Hart, and I have good reason for making this direct statement. Boys all over town are dressing like Bill Hart and carrying revolvers in holsters, often with loaded shells in their belts. I found an elevator boy of 15 or 16 years with a big revolver in his pocket. He said the gun belonged to his father."

In regard to the Classicalia affair, I have certain information which leads me to believe that the use of loaded shells on that occasion was a premeditated affair by the guilty boy.

"The 'Wild West' spirit has become so strong among boys in the city that something must be done. I feel that some action looking to a remedy will need the co-operation of the public and the city officials. We are having many boys come before the court for shooting firearms in the city."

"By a system of questioning, during the past week or two, juvenile court officials have learned that each boy who comes before the court is an ardent movie fan, and in nearly every instance the boy will name Bill Hart as his favorite actor."

"To the boys, Bill Hart is a hero."

His acts in the pictures are always tinged with romance and he is held up as a fine specimen of manhood, no matter what character he is playing. The things that Hart does on the screen are fixed in the boy's mind as sometimes worthy of emulation, whether it be shooting at some person or object, or stealing a horse or automobile. The boys go to the theatre and see these acts presented in a heroic setting. They leave the theatre with the picture fixed in mind, and imbued with the idea that to perform something like it would be manly. They do one or two small acts of depredation or law-breaking, and then they begin to think, 'this is the life.' "Just what can be done it is difficult to say. But I am certain that the old time 'dime novel,' so much condemned by all parents and students of civic welfare, holds no comparison with the effect on the youth of the country of the Bill Hart pictures."

The Standard also has information that somewhat tends to sustain the statement of Judge Sullivan. A mother tells The Standard of taking her small son, who is only four years of age, to a heroic movie of the Hart type. The youngster saw a rope thrown about a man's neck by another man, on horseback, the latter dragging his victim along the ground. The next day the child procured a rope, made a slipknot, placed it about the neck of a neighbor's two-and-a-half-year-old child and began dragging the infant about the lawn. This woman luckily discovered the "sport" of her little son in time to save the other child's life.

The juvenile court authorities state that the matter is so serious as to require immediate attention.

John Edward Carver and A. R. McIntyre are on the executive and arrangement committee, and A. R. Heywood is a member of the fraternal and reception committee.

The twenty-seventh degree is also in the hands of the Ogden men. It is under the direction of Fred M. Nye and is assisted by William H. Wattis, Geo. A. Dickson, Chas. H. Kendall, Styles W. Wherry, George A. Kelly, Fred W. Easton, Henry Rosenbluth, R. S. Joyce, A. R. McIntyre and Elmer I. Goshen.

HUNDREDS OF BOYS OF WEST ARRIVING HOME

A contingent of 200 soldiers, a large number of them from Utah, Nevada and California, arrived in Ogden this morning from Fort Russell, Wyo., where they had been discharged. The men were members of the 348th field artillery and a great many of the boys claimed southern Utah and Salt Lake as home. This unit is a part of the Seventh artillery division.

The boys had all been overseas and had seen service on the western front. Almost all were members of E. company of the 1st battalion. They reported that there were a great many Utah men at Fort Russell to be discharged within the next few days.

The boys arrived on Union Pacific train No. 7, and most of them departed on the O. S. L. for Salt Lake and points in Nevada. A few of the boys continued on to California. Three, George Davis, Nathan G. Chugg and J. W. Gibson, returned to their homes in this county. They state that every train arriving from the east for Utah men from the 91st division.

On the same train was a special car with 12 wounded who had all suffered the loss of a limb during action in the battle zone. Eight of the men were without their right leg, while four of them had suffered the loss of the left. They were en route to the Letterman hospital at San Francisco.

SWIMMING GIRLS SWIMMINGLY HAND-SOME AT ALHAMBRA

Splash! go the Mack Sennett bathing beauties. Not a splash in the wetness of Mr. Neptune's unfrequented and unfurrowed fields nor yet a kick or two in the eye of the camera; but a splash, a bath, a frolic in the footlights, a shower in the center of the "spot."

In other words, the jealously guarded specimens of perfection in feminine formation, known to the wide world of filmdom as "Mack Sennett's bathing beauties," are to appear for the very first time in their brief careers as regular play actors, right out on the stage, be gosh!

hambra theatre on Thursday afternoon and will be seen as part of a show that is to be headed by Sennett's latest and biggest picture play, "Yankee Doodle in Berlin," on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

It was openly asserted that in "Mickey" Mr. Sennett outshone himself and accomplished a creation that even his own genius could not again match. "Yankee Doodle in Berlin" proves that in "Mickey" Mr. Sennett was only making his own stride, finding his own pace and getting in form for "Yankee Doodle in Berlin" is a bigger accomplishment than "Mickey" by just that element that is measured by "purpose."

"Mickey" was produced with no impulse other than a desire to provide wholesome, amiable, appealing and heart touching entertainment—a praiseworthy motive, but not the highest.

In "Yankee Doodle in Berlin" Sennett reaches the realm of prophet and preacher while he does not divest himself of the motley of the player. Those who know Mr. Sennett's works need not be informed that he never preaches. Neither does he in "Yankee Doodle in Berlin." He does better, he gives the public a lesson in patriotism of royal, 100 per cent loyalty.

COMMISSIONERS ARE FIRST DAY OF VICTORY LOAN OPENS IN OGDEN

The board of county commissioners met as a board of canvassers and canvassed the returns of the recent bond election. The work will be completed late this afternoon.

At the meeting of the board of commissioners this morning, no official notice was received regarding the action of condemnation proceedings to be started by the state board of health against court house.

It has been suggested to the board of county commissioners that they re-submit the bond issue to the people of the city and county again and that assurances will be given that the bonds will carry. It has been suggested that Ogden City be authorized to spend $250,000 upon a new building that the county portion may as well be carried and the half million dollar structure put up.

Definite action by the county commissioners will probably be announced tomorrow.

FOURTEEN - YEAR - OLD CHESTER GUTHRIE IS WOUNDED

Shooting by young boys with firearms resulted in the wounding of Chester Guthrie, a 14 year-old boy of Harrisville, and the arrest of two boys for shooting the padlocks off the manholes on the Ogden water conduits in Ogden canyon yesterday.

The Guthrie boy was with a picnic party of children at the time he was shot. Children had gone to the canyon from Harrisville and were holding their picnic when they heard a number of shots on the hillside above them. Suddenly several bullets struck the ground in their midst and the Guthrie boy received a wound in the leg.

The juvenile court authorities state that the ban on firearms will be strictly enforced and that from now on boys caught shooting, either in the city or outside, will be severely dealt with. Parents are warned by the court officials that they should see to it that their boys are not allowed to have firearms.

A son of Thomas Shreeve, probation officer, reported about two weeks ago that some boys shot bullets into the ground about his feet as he was walking along the canyon road. A number of reports of boys shooting in the direction of persons walking in the canyon or on country roads have been made to the juvenile court.

The court officials state that shooting of firearms is becoming so general that the danger is acute and something must be done to put a stop to the use of firearms by small boys.

MEETING IS TO BE HELD BY THE SOLDIER BOYS

The first day of the Victory loan drive found the banks doing most of the business in government securities, the committee of women with booths on the street reporting sales as very slow.

While no summary could be obtained of the amount obtained up to 2 o'clock today, it was evident that the first day would not show a big record in small amounts.

The banks reported at noon that many purchases of large blocks of bonds had been made by their patrons. The Golden Rule stores subscribed $25,000, half of which is credited to Ogden.

a proposition that will mean more to you than a gold mine.

We have an established collection agency here and we want the chance to clean up your ledger of all your slow and bad accounts and put them where they should be—on your bank book.

We can do it, too. You say that is strong? We have the "system" and we don't hesitate to make this assertion.

And besides, you run absolutely no risk. We put our time and money against your bills, and if we collect we charge you a commission on the money actually collected. No collection, no charge. Could anything be fairer?

Of course, Ogden has plenty of good attorneys, but have they the time or the disposition to collect the average account where there is no chance to collect by law? We think not and here is where most of the money is lost. The experience of the best collectors in the country is that more money is collected by persistence and diplomacy than by law.

Of course there is always a percentage of dishonest debtors and irresponsible deadbeats whom nobody on earth could collect from; but if the percentage were not very small, business could not continue. The majority who contract bills expect to pay them, but if you neglect your debtor he will forget to pay you.

Right here is where we can help you. Our "system" won't let them forget, but in a way that will keep them as your customers—if they are worth keeping. We work as hard on the $1.00 account as the $100.00 account.

Don't you think our proposition is worth a trial? Now is a good time. Spring cleaning is on. Why not clean out your oldest accounts, sending us your list.
